

THE TRI-WEEKLY COMMONWEALTH.

VOL. 10.

FRANKFORT, KENTUCKY, MAY 1, 1861.

NO. 146.

THE TRI-WEEKLY COMMONWEALTH
Will be published every Monday, Wednesday and Friday, by
A. G. HODGES & COMPANY,
At FOUR DOLLARS PER ANNUM, payable in advance.

THE WEEKLY COMMONWEALTH, a large mammoth sheet, is published every Tuesday morning at TWO DOLLARS PER ANNUM, in advance.
Our terms for advertising, either in the Tri-Weekly or Weekly Commonwealth, will be as liberal as in any of the newspapers published in the west.

The Frankfort Commonwealth.

A. G. HODGES & CO., PROPRIETORS.
J. H. JOHNSON, Editor.

The Proprietors of the Commonwealth, grateful for the generous patronage which has been bestowed upon them, are determined to furnish their patrons a journal which shall be unexcelled in any of the departments which comprise a first class newspaper.

Published at the Capital of the State, it will be enabled to furnish its readers with the latest intelligence of the actions of the higher courts and of the various departments of the State. It will also contain the latest telegraphic news of stirring events, and also of the New York, Cincinnati, Louisville and New Orleans markets.

In politics the Commonwealth will be conservative, occupying a middle and antagonistic ground in reference to the two extremes. The old parties broken up, and old issues virtually dead, the vital question at present is Union or disunion. The Commonwealth is for the Union, believing it to be the greatest safeguard for our rights, as well as our most effective auxiliary in our efforts to obtain redress for our wrongs. Its conductors do not regard disunion as a remedy for any of the wrongs of the South, but rather an aggravation. It will contend for the equality of the States in the Union, and for the absolute non-interference by Congress with the domestic affairs of the States and Territories.

We shall aim to make the Commonwealth an acceptable and appropriate frsides companion. It will contain selections from the choicest literature of the day, prose, poetry, &c.
The Weekly will be printed on extra double medium paper, in new and beautiful type.
Terms, in advance, for the Tri-Weekly, $4 per annum.
Terms, for the Weekly $2 per annum.

Major of First Battalion.
We are authorized to announce THOMAS B. FORD, as the Peoples candidate for Major in this District.

COUNTY COMMITTEE.—The Union Central Committee for this Congressional District have appointed as Executive Committee for Franklin county, P. Swigert, J. D. Pollard, Capt. J. W. Russell, Leroy Wooldridge, and Chas. D. Morris.

The election, which takes place on Saturday next, is an important one in many particulars. It will be considered, both at home and abroad, as a test of strength between the Union and Disunion parties here. Every true Union man in the county will vote for Bob King, for County Judge. Mark our words, and file them away for future reference: NO GOOD UNION MAN IN FRANKLIN COUNTY, WHO LOVES HIS COUNTRY, WILL FAIL TO VOTE FOR BOB KING NEXT SATURDAY.

Important Correspondence.

The following dispatch from Gen. Leslie Combs, of Kentucky, was received in New York city on Tuesday:

FRANKFORT, KY., April 23, 1861.
To A. L. Saunders:
Mr. Crittenden is absent. Can we get arms and money for self-defense in the Union? When and how? LESLIE COMBS.

The following is the reply:
New York, April 24, 1861.
To Gen. Leslie Combs, Frankfort, Ky.:
Gen. Wool sent your dispatch to the President by express. No telegraphic communication. A. L. SAUNDERS.

Mr. Saunders also sent the following communication to the President:
New York, April 24, 1861.
To his Excellency, Abraham Lincoln, President of the United States, Washington, D. C.:
If the State of Kentucky assumes the position of a strict "armed neutrality," remaining in the Union, not permitting troops from the Confederate States to pass over her soil, will it be necessary for the Federal Government to march its troops through the State when required to send them South to suppress the revolutionists in the Cotton States? A. L. SAUNDERS, Of Paducah, Ky.

Of course no response to the above can be received for several days, cut off as all regular communication is between New York and Washington.

VOTE FOR PRINCIPLES AND NOT MEN.

CONSCRIPTS FOR THE CONFEDERACY.—The Central Kentuckian states that Mr. J. H. Kirk, a citizen of Marion county, received a summons a few days ago to appear before a court martial in Mississippi. Mr. Kirk has been selling stock for several years in Mississippi. Recently when in that State he was enrolled in the militia, but not being desirous of fighting in the Confederate army, refused and came home, for which disobedience he has been summoned as above stated.

We surrender most of our space to the telegraph, and other important news, believing that in these exciting times our readers had rather have news than opinions.

Only a few days remain for work. We hope that every Union man will do his best between now and Saturday. This election will have an effect for good or evil years from now.

If we were a betting man, and ever made a wager, we would bet oysters, just a can, that Keenon would be Major.

Breckinridge is speaking in the Green River County. What for? The Disunion ticket is withdrawn, and what is Mr. B. speaking for now? Say? Tell us, O, Yeoman.

Sufferers from Scrofula and Scrofulous affections, clean up! Why wear your Pimples, Blisters, Ulcers, Sores? Why have the life twisted out of you by Dispepsia, Rheumatism, and Gout? Why suffer Syphilitic and Mercurial diseases to rot the bones in your body, or the flesh off your bones? Why let your sluggish blood drag and scatter its distempers through your veins? Ayer's Compound Extract of Sarsaparilla cures these complaints, and cleanses them out of the system. Use it faithfully and you bring to society a healthier, cleaner, and far more acceptable member.

Letter from a Kentuckian.

The following letter was not intended for publication, but as it is from a prominent Kentuckian now in New York, we give it to our readers as the best exposition of the Union feeling in that State. The ridiculous speech of Gov. poor Pickens, to which the letter refers, is also in another part of this paper. Our correspondent is responsible for his own views. We do not desire to be understood as endorsing them all, but give the letter as a matter of news, on a subject in which all are deeply interested at this time:

New York, April 21, 1861.

Editor Commonwealth—

DEAR SIR: I hope you will excuse me for this intrusion, but feeling as I do, (and as I think every American citizen should feel), a deep and abiding love for the Constitution and flag of the United States of America; and believing that every lover of his country should do all in his power to perpetuate that Constitution, and sustain that flag, however humble his position in life, I have determined to inclose you a paper that came into my hands to-day, published at the City of Charleston, South Carolina. You will there find the speech of Governor Pickens, made to a crowd in Charleston, after the fall of Fort Sumpter, and I think the most outrageous document that has ever been published in this country, or, at least, that ever came under my eyes. If you exchange with the Charleston papers, of course you will have seen it before this reaches you. If you do not, and copied from any of your exchanges, it would be charged, I have no doubt, that it was a submission. Having seen that Governor Magoffin had called the Legislature together, I thought you would get the paper just in time to have the speech read in both Houses at their meeting, but I see from the Journal of the 19th, that the Governor had declined making the call, and then it occurred to me that some one would read it from some stand where Major Breckinridge or James B. Clay speak, that the effect on the people of Kentucky would be overwhelming. I may be mistaken in the people I was raised among, but it does seem to me that no Kentuckian could hold up his head for at least one of his Southern Sisters, after the expression of such sentiments as are contained in that document. The man who responds to those sentiments certainly has no claim upon any civilized people. If that speech had been made by some Indian Chief, after such a battle as that fought at the River Raisin, and as far back as the revolutionary war, it might have been excused by the generation now living, but the idea of a man, who has held office under, and been protected during his life under that flag, to make such a speech, is a wrong and an outrage that the American people ought to rise as one man and avenge; and next to the insult to the flag of our country, comes the fact that one of Kentucky's most gallant sons was the object of attack in this demon in human shape, and when the President of the United States called on the State of Kentucky for men to defend her flag and the National Capital, he was informed that Kentucky could not furnish men to subjugate her Southern Sisters. Had not our Governor better write South and ask Southern Sisters to show a little kindness to Kentucky's children, particularly when they found them doing their sworn duty. Now, sir, I do not know what you think of this transaction, but this I know, that the people of Kentucky will either have to sustain the Government of the United States, or they will have to go with the so called Southern Confederacy. There is no middle ground now, and the men who are now under arms will either fully establish this Government, or they will perish in the attempt, and for every one that falls ten are ready to take his place. The road is plain for the people to take. Furnish their quota of troops to defend the Capital at Washington like good and loyal citizens; let the guns that Magoffin is trying to buy alone, and let her people go on about their usual business, and make a good crop to feed all these soldiers, (for which she will get a good price), and by that means she will hold her slave property unmolested, and her position. And when the rebels are cleared out of this land, then she can come forward with those, (if there are any), who stand firm with her, and demand any further guarantee that her people think proper for their slave property, and the non-slaveholding people, as one man, will give it to her. Her Southern Sisters made the fight, let them attend to it. There is but one feeling here, and that is to enforce the laws in every State in the Union, and if it takes every dollar and every man, it will be done.

The Western Lunatic Asylum—Circular from the Board of Managers.
HOPKINSVILLE, April 24, 1861.
In consequence of the sad disaster of the burning of the Western Lunatic Asylum, the officers of the institution found it impossible to receive and properly take care of a larger number of patients than was left in their charge after that unfortunate occurrence, and to save the trouble of much fatigue to the unfortunate persons who might be assigned to this institution, and expense to the State of sending them when it is impossible to receive more here, and place them in such a situation as the well-being of most of that unfortunate class require, until the burnt building is refitted, the Board of Managers sent a printed circular to every County Judge in the State, advising them of these facts. But notwithstanding this timely notice was given by us, numerous applications continue to be made for admission, and in some cases patients are sent without writing to the Superintendent, as the law directs, to know whether he can receive the patient, and if so, whether he will send for him, unless their own safety, or the safety of others require them to be sent without delay. As applications for new admissions are increasing, rather than diminishing, we deem it our imperative, though painful duty, to again notify the courts of the several counties of the State of this fact, and that in no case shall they send a patient here without first ascertaining whether they can be provided for.

The officers of this institution have no desire to appeal to the public for sympathy in the trying scenes through which they passed at the time and since the burning of the house, and made doubly so by the very many false reports published in many of the papers of this State, and otherwise put in circulation of the suffering of this unfortunate class, and hinder the speedy completion of the burnt building, and fit it for their reception. While they would always desire to discriminate between those who have wickedly put those falsehoods in circulation, and those who have been innocently misled by them, even to the great detriment of the institution, it is not their purpose to enter here upon any vindication of themselves, or a refutation of those false reports, or spend any time in censure of their authors. Conscious of the rectitude of their course, and the disinterestedness of their efforts to provide to the utmost of the means at command for the welfare of the unfortunate lunatics of the State, they will say that if the very frequent but universally negative responses they are compelled to make applications for admission, should admonish the legislature at its next session of the urgent necessity of making such appropriations as will insure a speedy completion of the building, they would be very much relieved from unpleasant responsibilities by seeing the proper means provided for the suitable care and comfort of all the patients seeking admission.

Papers throughout the State would greatly serve the cause of economy to the State, and humanity to the lunatic, by publishing the above facts, that this institution can receive but few if any more patients until the house is repaired.

GEO. POINDEXTER,
Chm'n Board Managers W. L. A.

Vote for Ed. Keenon for Major.

From the Richmond Messenger, Friday, April 26.
The Crittenden Banquet at the Court-House.

The most gratifying spectacle our people have witnessed in a social way for a long time, was the supper and assemblage at the Court-house on Saturday night—an ovation to this distinguished Kentucky statesman. The supper itself was superb and reflected much credit on the taste of the host and hostess, Mr. and Mrs. Francis. The company consisted of about one hundred and twenty gentlemen of all shades of political sentiment of the season.

At the center table Judge Breck presided. Mr. Crittenden on his right. Our worthy and venerable townsman, E. H. Field, occupied the other end of the table as Vice President. This table was occupied by grey-headed men entirely. Every seat in the large hall was filled. What is especially worthy of notice, was the cordial salutations and hearty good will which permeated the whole assembly. The merry laugh, the easy abandon, the spicy jest characterized the whole scene. After an earnest "civil war" on salmon, the queen of the finny tribe, and innumerable other good things under which the tables creaked and groaned, a few dozen bottles of Catawba were uncorked, and the following toasts were read by the Secretary, cheered by the tables, and pledged in a bumper of this delicious and harmless beverage:

1. Washington. The greatest and best of men. He constructed for us the best Government the world ever beheld, and with prophetic wisdom admonished posterity of all the dangers of its destruction. We read and admire, but do not hearken to his counsel.
2. When the storm of fanaticism and passion, which now afflicts the nation, has spent its fury, may truth resume her force, reason her sway, and patriotism her seat in the hearts of the people.
3. Kentucky. Though terrible in war with a foreign foe, her present mission is peace; too brave her blood to be shed in her own countrymen, except in defense of her honor and her soil, and who "dares to beard the Douglas in his hall."
4. The Stars and Stripes—The flag of the nation. We venerate it for the glories of the past and the cherished memories of our revolutionary fathers; the victories won under its folds make it immortal.
5. The memory of Kentucky's great statesman, Henry Clay, whose wise and comprehensive counsel twice saved the country from civil war. His death has left an awful chasm in our national councils in this the severest trial.
6. Our guest, the venerable statesman, John J. Crittenden. His brow covered with laurels, a kind Providence still spares him to win a crown of glory as the pacificator of a distracted nation.
7. The fair, always lovely, always right. The man is happy who consults his wife.

The sentiment complimentary to Mr. Crittenden was received with much applause. After it subsided he rose and addressed the company for thirty minutes in a mild conversational tone on the evils of the times, deeply interesting and affecting. His modest allusion to himself and his services to his country, was the stamp of true greatness, and won all hearts, and he became forthwith the recipient of the warmest congratulations of friends and political opponents. All appeared to be for Crittenden and his wise counsel. Sentiments of numerous gentlemen were called for and received in great good humor. What is especially gratifying to all, not a single incident occurred on the occasion in the slightest degree to mar the harmony of the meeting.

We regret our inability to spread before our readers the many excellent volunteer toasts at this "feast of reason and flow of soul." We make room, however, for the following eloquent and patriotic remarks of Maj. R. Runyon, who, being called for, proposed for a sentiment—
Our distinguished guest: The Renzi of the Republic; the last of the Romans.
He then offered a few remarks, in substance, that he was the last that now remained of that brilliant constellation of intellect which once adorned the Senate of the United States—Clay, Webster, Calhoun, and a few other names not born to die. In recalling the great men of that period, and in reading their debates in the Senate and before the country, one was reminded of Milton's battle of the giants:
"From their foundations, loosening to and fro, They plucked the seated hills with all their load, Rocks, waters, woods, and by their shaggy tops Uplifting, bore them in their hands."

How changed was the spectacle now! A fragment of a Senate of second-rate men, many of them without talents, without education, without experience in public affairs, and without a moral principle; fanatics and demagogues who had sought and obtained power and place from the folly and corruptions of the times. Truly the remark once made by a distinguished Kentuckian had been verified: "These are the days of triumphant and mediocrity." Men who, by pandering to the different sections, to the passions and prejudices, and even the ignorance and bigotry of men, have raised a storm which they could not allay if they would; small men in large offices, powerless but for evil. That such small men should destroy so great a country! but who can rebuild and reconstruct nothing!

Already the din of civil war is borne on every breeze, and we can almost see the flames and smoke of burning cities, towns and peaceful homes. What a spectacle for those who have caused these calamities! From amidst the ruins and the woe which they have brought upon their unhappy country, they may now look forth, and say with the fallen angel,
"Seest thou yonder plain, forlorn and wild, The seat of desolation, void of light, Save what the glimmering of these livid flames, Casts pale and dreadful? Whither let us tend From off the tossing of these fiery waves, There rest, if any rest can harbor there, And re-assembling our allotted powers, Consult how we may henceforth offend our enemy, our own loss how repair, How overcome this dire calamity, What reinforcement we may gain from hope; If not, what resolution from despair."

Is it too late yet? I trust not. Have peace and harmony and patriotism taken their flight forever from this devoted land? Let us hope for better things. But if at last, when the worst comes to the worst, if we are hoping against hope, we will then try what we as Kentuckians can do for our own liberties, in the land where we were born, which is our own land, and will never sink under the tread of an invader.

Judge Embury offered the following sentiment:

I am for the Davis of Madison, and against the Davis of the Southern Confederacy.

To which Mr. W. Quincy Davis responded as follows:
Mr. President, I will offer two sentiments expressing to some extent the present duty of Kentucky.

1. The Madison Home Guards: They serve neither Abe Lincoln nor Jeff. Davis, but will present their bayonets to those who shall dare to set hostile feet upon Kentucky soil.
2. With the sword in the right hand and the olive branch in the left, with her heart full of patriotism, led on by the wise counsels of her Cincinnati, the great and good Crittenden, Kentucky will demand the peace of this nation; standing amid the clangor of fraternal arms, firm as a pillar of heaven, the noblest State the world ever saw.

Proclamation by the Governor.

Recent events are of so startling a character as to render it imperative necessary that the Legislature of Kentucky be again convened in extraordinary session. It is now apparent that the most energetic measures are being resorted to by the Government at Washington to prosecute a war upon an extended scale with the seceded States. Already large sums of money and supplies of men are being raised in the Northern States for that purpose. The tread of armies is the response which is being made to the measures of pacification which are being discussed before our people, whilst up to this moment we are comparatively in a defenseless attitude.

Whatever else should be done, it is, in my judgment, the duty of Kentucky, without delay, to place herself in a complete position for defense. The causes for apprehension are now certainly grave enough to impel every Kentuckian to demand that this be done, and to require of the Legislature of the State such additional action as may be necessary for the general welfare. To this end, I now call upon the members of the General Assembly to convene at the Capitol, in Frankfort, on the 6TH DAY OF MAY, 1861.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF,
I, Beriah Magoffin, Governor of the Commonwealth of Kentucky, have hereunto subscribed my name, and caused the seal of the Commonwealth to be affixed. Done at the city of Frankfort, the 24th day of April, 1861, and in the 69th year of the Commonwealth.

By the Governor:
THOS. B. MONROE, Jr., Sec'y of State.
By JAS. W. TATE, Assistant Sec'y.

NEW YORK, April 27.
The Herald has a dispatch from a special correspondent sent to Pensacola, who was not allowed to reach there. He derived authentic information of the condition of affairs there, and to the 21st there had been no action, and General Bragg has intimated his inability to reduce Fort Pickens. His army is said to be demoralized. He has also intimated that he will act purely on the defensive. Eight United States vessels were off Pickens on the 21st, with their guns ready for immediate action. It is believed they would attack the navy yards and forts adjacent. The correspondent passed Montgomery on the 22d. Davis was making active preparations to attack Washington.

He saw troops en route to Richmond. They received arms and equipments at Augusta.

Gen. Renau of Tennessee was at Montgomery concluding arrangements for sending two thousand men in citizens' dress to Baltimore and Washington, to secretly operate in an attack near Washington.

The Confederate States are in a state of anarchy; business prostrated; thinking people are less confident. The country is in a state of mob law, and people are escaping.

PHILADELPHIA, April 28.
The Seventh Regiment of New York will occupy Georgetown Heights to-morrow morning. Twenty-five hundred troops are at Annapolis Junction; about three thousand at Annapolis City, and one thousand at Perryville. Sherman's battery at Elkton.

Two locomotives went to-day from Philadelphia to stock new route. Fort McHenry was actually reinforced this day, and Fort Carroll occupied. Large gangs of men are at work on the Annapolis Branch road and telegraph line to-day. It is a positive fact that the troops from the Confederate States to the number of about 1,500 have arrived at Norfolk and Richmond.

WASHINGTON, April 29.
The President has issued the following proclamation:

Whereas, for reasons asserted in my proclamation of the 19th instant, a blockade of the ports of the seceded States was established, and whereas public property has been seized, the collection of the revenue and duty obstructed, commissioned officers while executing orders have been arrested, held as prisoners, or impeded in their official duties without due legal process by persons claiming to act under the authority of Virginia and North Carolina, and an efficient blockade of the ports of those States will also be established.

(Signed) ABRAHAM LINCOLN.
FREDERICK, Md., April 29.

Hon. Reverdy Johnson here has in his possession a letter from President Lincoln, suggesting that Maryland, through its Legislature, should agree to an armistice with the General Government for sixty days.

Richmond as being the sentiment of Governor Leitcher.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 28.
A gentleman just returned to this city from a business tour through Alabama and Mississippi, leaving Mobile Tuesday last, reports that hundreds of men who had gone to Pensacola to take Fort Pickens are returning home daily, disgusted, and satisfied that it is impossible for the Confederate States to capture the fort.

A large number of troops at Pensacola are sick and dying in the hospitals from the effects of fatigue, exposure and hunger. Our informant reports that the people of Alabama and Mississippi are almost crazy with excitement; that the mob spirit is rampant everywhere, rendered daily more desperate in some localities by threatened famine and starvation.

WASHINGTON, April 29.
The Alexandria Gazette says Gen. Lee has ordered the release of Gen. Harney, who was stopped at Harper's Ferry while on his way to Washington, and mentions an rumor that Jeff. Davis is to come to Richmond this week, and that Vice President Stevens has returned to Montgomery.

PHILADELPHIA, April 29.
Efforts are being made at Washington to have Cassius M. Clay and N. P. Banks appointed Major-Generals in the army.

Experience have proved that simple remedies often act speedily and certainly when taken in the early stages of the disease, recourse should at once be had to "Brown's Bronchial Troches," or Lozenges, let the Cold, Cough, or Irritation of the Throat be ever so slight, as by this precaution a more serious attack may be effectually warded off. CAUTION. As certain unprincipled persons are attempting to palm off on the unsuspecting public imitations of my Prepared Glue, I would caution all persons to examine before purchasing, and see that the full name, SPALDING'S PREPARED GLUE, is on the outside wrapper; all others are swindling counterfeits.
